

Jacey Birch is well known in South Florida as an advocate for animals. Her investigative reporting has both educated people and changed laws on the books in Miami-Dade and Broward counties. She is also an avid environmentalist, working to make a difference in preserving our planet and covering stories in south Florida regarding the ocean, reefs, beaches, parks and alternative sources of energy. A native of South Florida, Jacey earned bachelor degrees in political science and journalism at the University of Florida. She is an anchor for Local 10 News Mornings, WPLG TV. She is a board member of Humane Society of Broward County Pets are Worth Saving program (PAWS).